I started my career in industry, but from the very beginning I discovered my passion in building software.

Now I know about operations, finance, and business, but also programming, data analytics and product management. Add all those into the mix, and you will get products that add value as fast as possible, consistently, and sustainably.

My mission is to develop apps that help businesses impact the right metrics, and does so with state-of-the-art UX.

So, by helping companies thrive, we take a small step towards making the world a better place. This is my vision.
